Yellow Leads Extractor 6.8.0 Patch BEST

I tried several online methods but nothing helped so I thought I would ask you to help! A: The problem here is that the Installshield and unshield versions do not share a common registry entry. When you install it with unshield, the 2 files: unshield.exe.manifest unshield.exe are installed into: [Program Files]\SetupApps Note that [Program Files] is different from [Program Files (x86)] Note also that the unshield version that is installed there, will have different values in their registry keys e.g. Icon in its key HKLM\SOFTWARE\Microsoft\SetupApps Any files in your [Program Files]\SetupApps can be registered in HKLM\SOFTWARE\Microsoft\SetupApps\FileNames When unshield is installed with installshield, the settings happen differently. The setup was installed to: [Program Files]\Common Files\SetupApps When unshield is installed with installshield, the icons are stored in: [Program Files]\SetupApps And files with the same in their name is registered in HKLM\SOFTWARE\Microsoft\SetupApps\FileNames But since all files in [Program Files]\Common Files\SetupApps are shared between the two versions, you can actually do Go to [Program Files]\Common Files\SetupApps Select Unshield.exe Right-Click Edit Icon Select Paste with " Hit OK and unshield will change its icon to that of installshield What to do now is simple: Move the unshield.exe and the unshield.exe.manifest to [Program Files]\SetupApps Note that unshield.exe.manifest is in SetupApps\unshield.exe Refresh the unshield.exe in the registry (this shouldn't be necessary, but I did it anyway). Q: How to keep a promise after a fat arrow I am trying to keep a promise after returning a fat arrow function. The problem I am facing is that my promise is not being returned. I want to keep the promise after returning the fat arrow function class Test { makePromise(){ return new Promise((resolve, reject) => {
